PASTORAL BOUNDARIES: PERSONAL AND LEGAL

Few people understand the demands of pastoral ministry. Yet, it seems that every week there is another story about a pastor who struggled to set limits either personally or professionally. Setting and enforcing good, clear boundaries is not a topic we can discuss and leave. This issue is more like our daily devotional time, something that must be attended to both intentionally and frequently.

This clergy conference is designed to assist pastors in understanding both the internal struggles and external struggles related to setting good, clear boundaries. We will have the opportunity to hear from each other – what works and what doesn't work.

An important part of this day will be a presentation from two attorneys reminding us what the law says regarding maintaining legal boundaries. Scott Remington, Florida chancellor for the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of the Central Gulf Coast, and Kathy Miller, Alabama chancellor for the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of the Central Gulf Coast, will present information regarding this issue. What conversations are confidential and what issues require reporting?

Yes, this will be an important day. I trust you will join us at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church as we examine pastoral boundaries: personal and legal.

God's peace,

Don W. Winslett, Ed.D., director

The Center for Clergy Care & Education

BAPTIST HOSPITAL PASTORAL SERVICES & CPE

Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) is professional education for ministry that brings students into supervised pastoral encounters to develop their pastoral identity, interpersonal competence and ministry skills. Learning via hands-on encounters through reflection and discussion with peers and supervisors is the very heart of CPE.

You can learn more about CPE at eBaptistHealthCare.org/pastoralservices/cpe-programs.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the end of the workshop, the participant will be able to:

1. Identify personal struggles with boundaries and how to maintain good boundaries.
2. Identify external struggles with boundaries and how to protect one's own boundaries.
3. Understand the state law for mandated reporting regarding issues of neglect and abuse.
